

[On the Silk Road]

Then the silk. Not of this Earth surely. Wasn't silk the effusion of moonlight through prisms? Luminous. Luscious. The silk yielded to Audrey's fingertips as sumptuous as cream and slippery as fog. Its wizardry enlivened her fingers.